

California Transparency in Supply Chains Act & United Kingdom Modern Slavery Act Statement

This statement explains the steps that we have taken to eliminate slavery and human trafficking from our supply chain. Some countries have implemented legislation that requires certain businesses to provide public statements in this regard. This legislation includes the California Transparency in Supply Chains Act of 2010 and Section 54, Part 6 of the United Kingdom Modern Slavery Act of 2015. This annual statement is intended to provide our customers with information that will allow them to make more informed decisions about the goods they are purchasing.

Company Structure and Business: At Johnson & Johnson, we believe good health is the foundation of vibrant lives, thriving communities and forward progress. That's why for more than 130 years, we have aimed to keep people well at every age and every stage of life. Today, as the world's largest and most broadly based healthcare company, we are committed to using our reach and size for good. We strive to improve access and affordability, create healthier communities, and put a healthy mind, body and environment within reach of everyone, everywhere. We are blending our heart, science and ingenuity to profoundly change the trajectory of health for humanity. More information on our current Company Structure can be found here and within our Health for Humanity Report.

Our Supply Chain: The Johnson & Johnson Supply Chain takes an end-to-end view of our business, starting with a close collaboration with R&D and with commercial colleagues to safely and efficiently plan, source, make and deliver a high-quality, reliable supply of all the products in the Johnson & Johnson portfolio. Our Supply Chain is responsible for making products at our own Johnson & Johnson facilities and through external partners. As a result, our supply chain is global and complex. We purchase goods and services from thousands of suppliers around the world. The success of our business depends on our ability to collaborate with suppliers that not only provide the highest quality products and services, but are philosophically and strategically aligned with our commitment to our social and environmental responsibilities. More information on our supply chain can be found here.

Our Policies: Johnson & Johnson is committed to ensuring that it conducts its business worldwide with respect for human rights and in compliance with all applicable laws and fair labor practices, as evidenced by our Statement on Human Rights, which was updated in 2018; our Human Trafficking Policy; our Policy on the Employment of Young Persons; and our Responsibility Standards for Suppliers ("Standards"), which was updated in 2017 after we published our initial California Transparency in Supply Chains Act & United Kingdom Modern Slavery Act Statement in May 2017.

Managing the human rights considerations in our supply base is a critical and complex undertaking. Johnson & Johnson takes the following steps to manage our supply chain relationships responsibly:

Verification/Due Diligence: Since our initial statement in May 2017, we completed a comprehensive review and update of our Responsibility Standards for Suppliers to include expanded requirements on human rights. An internal cross-functional team coordinated the revision process to ensure that the updated Standards reflect growing internal expectations as well as external trends and benchmarks in responsible supply chain management. Our expectation is that suppliers comply with the revised Standards, which were communicated to all suppliers and all Johnson & Johnson employees responsible for supplier relations. Reflecting the diversity of our supply base, our Standards have been made available in 13 languages.

Since our initial statement, we have continued to verify and monitor supplier compliance with our Standards through a formal assessment and audit program. Assessments were largely administered through a globally recognized third-party program called EcoVadis. These assessments were conducted for suppliers participating in our Sustainable Procurement Program or our Environment, Health & Safety (EHS) risk assessment program. EcoVadis assessments provide an initial screening of supplier performance, and the results (a score) play an important role in determining which suppliers may require an on-site audit.

Audit: We have had an EHS audit program in place for more than 10 years. We mostly leverage the environmental and safety expertise of our internal Environmental Health, Safety & Sustainability organization and on-the-ground presence in various geographic regions to conduct supplier EHS audits. We systematically screen suppliers to be audited based on EcoVadis scores, type of goods and services provided, and geographical location. Based on that risk evaluation and an understanding of our ability to influence vendors, we particularly focus on the following types of suppliers for audits:

- External manufacturers of finished goods
- Active pharmaceutical ingredients (API) suppliers
- Biologics and vaccine suppliers
- R&D suppliers
- Chemicals suppliers

New external manufacturers and API, biologics and vaccine suppliers located in “high-risk” countries² are automatically subject to an on-site audit.

All EHS site audits are conducted using the audit protocol and checklist developed by the Pharmaceutical Supply Chain Initiative (PSCI). We identify supplier non-compliances in the areas of environment, health and safety, and management systems. We categorize these non-compliance findings as critical, major and minor, and communicate them to each supplier along with our expectations that they must implement time-bound corrective actions and demonstrate improvement. When critical findings are identified, we expect immediate mitigation of the risk. If significant non-conformances with our Standards cannot be sufficiently resolved, we will either not engage if it is a new supplier or withdraw business if it is a current supplier. However, we value our supplier relations and prefer to maintain the partnership for the long term. Therefore, we have processes in place to support our suppliers in improving their performance, including through:

- Follow-up technical visits that include expert training and best practice sharing;

- Business reviews with direct coaching and guidance;
- Information provided in our Sustainability Toolkit for Suppliers;
- Supplier relationship management engagement at category level; and
- Participation in supplier capability-building conferences, webinars and other resources available through Johnson & Johnson's membership in the PSCI.

In 2017, we conducted 189 EHS audits and technical visits.

Since our initial statement in May 2017, we have continued our work to establish an enterprise-wide framework for addressing human rights in our supply base. In addition to expanding the human rights requirements in our updated Responsibility Standards for Suppliers, a cross-functional Human Rights Working Group met regularly to guide and inform the development of the Company's human rights risk assessment approach and audit program. We also started to invest in a new social audit program. The full roll-out of the supplier social audit program is scheduled to take place in 2018. Supplier selection and prioritization criteria will include EcoVadis scores on Labor and Business Ethics, location in a country considered high risk for violation of human rights, and the supplier category, similar to the process we use for EHS audits, as described above. We intend to engage credible third-party audit firms with relevant expertise to conduct these audits on our behalf. Our revised Human Rights training for Global Procurement employees is also scheduled to be rolled out in 2018.

Certification: Our standard contracts with suppliers require compliance with all applicable laws. In addition, we are in the process of enhancing our existing terms and conditions regarding human trafficking and slavery. Since our initial statement in May 2017, we have updated our standard Purchase Order (PO) Terms & Conditions (T&Cs) in North America to reflect the updated Responsibility Standards for Suppliers, and are in the process of updating PO T&Cs worldwide in the applicable local languages to also reflect this update. We do not currently require periodic certification to confirm compliance and instead rely on assessments and audits to provide assurance.

Internal Accountability: Our Code of Business Conduct, Statement on Human Rights, Human Trafficking Policy and Responsibility Standards for Suppliers describe our commitment to human rights. Violation of Company policies and procedures is reportable through our company's Credo Hotline. All such reports of allegations of violations will be promptly investigated and, if the result of the investigation indicates that corrective action is required, the Company will decide what steps to take to rectify any problem and/or avoid the likelihood of its recurrence. Our Company's Credo Hotline is available to anyone to report a concern about the business conduct of our employees or suppliers, or to ask questions about our business conduct policies.

At the industry level, we engage with different business organizations – such as the Consumer Goods Forum, the Business for Social Responsibility Human Rights Working Group and the Pharmaceutical Supply Chain Initiative.

- We are a founding member of the PSCI that brings together a group of pharmaceutical and healthcare companies to formalize, implement, and champion responsible supply chain practices. Johnson & Johnson endorses the Principles established by the PSCI. The Initiative's supplier audit collaboration and capacity-building programs are helping to streamline the audit processes across these industries, as well as accelerate
